Praises Peruna. THE day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true to-day of most proprietary medicines.

But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low stations that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men of all classes and stations are equally

A dignified representative of the Presbyterian Church in the person of Rev. El. G. Smith does not hesitate to state publicly that he has used Peruna in his famfly and found it cured when other remedles failed. In this statement the Rev. Smith is supported by an elder in his church.

The Pastor's Letter.

Rev. E. G. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Greensboro, Ga., writes: "Having used Peruna in my family for some time it gives me pleasure to testify to its true worth.

"My little boy seven years of age had any little boy seven years of age and been suffering for some time with catarrh of the lower bowels. Other remedies had falled, but after taking two bottles of Peruna the trouble almost entirely disap-peared. For this special malady I con-sider it well-nigh a specific. "As a tonic for weak and wornout peo-ple it has few or no equals."—Rev. E. G. Bmith.

An Elder in Rev. Smith's Church Has Used Pe-ru-na With Success.

Mr. M. J. Rossman, a prominent merchant of Greenshoro, Ga., and an elder in the Presbyterian Church of that place, has used Peruna, and in a recent letter to the Peruna Medicine Co. of Columbus, O., writes as follows:

"For a long time I was tropbled with eatarrh of the kidneys and tried many cetarrn of the kinneys and their many remedies, all of which gave me no relief. Peruna was recommended to me by several friends, and after using a few battles I am pleased to say that the long-looked-for relief was found, and I am now enjoying better health than I have for years, and can heartily recommend Peruna to all similarly afficted. It is certainly a grand medicine."—M. J. Rossmann.

Catarrh of the Stomach. Rabbi David Klein, 526 E. Main street,

Columbus, O., writes the following to Dr. Hartman, regarding Peruna:

It affords me great pleasure to testify to the curative merits of your medicine Peruna is a well-tried and widely used remedy. Dapecially as a specific for ca-tarrh of the stomach it cannot be excelled. Peruna will do all that is claimed for it. Peruna has among its friends many of the leading temperance workers in this country who give it unstinted praise, and do not besitate to endorse it by the use of the most extravagant language.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna. write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice known that the Rev. James Poindexter. For many years be has been the successful paster of the Second Baptist Church of that city. Every day his venerable figure and kindly face may be seen on the streets of the city where he has labored for so many years. What a history of benevolence and self-sacrifice might be written by simply giving the details of the every-day life of this faithful puster and eloquent preacher.

But old age comes to the best of men. The rheumatics peculiar to advanced age had already begun its insidious ravages when it became necessary to find a remedy, if possible, that his days of usefulness might not be shortened.

An efficient nerve tonic that would stimulate the circulation, improve the digestion, and increase the tone and vigor of his whole system, was needed. The only remedy capable of meeting all these indications was found to be Peruna. In a letter to Dr. Hartman he states:

"My attention was called some time ago to your medicine for rhoumatic troubles by Mr. Cook, an old reliable druggist of this city, and I take pleasure in saying that I have tries them and found them good. It is my opinion that the remedy, Peruna, is justly entitled to the fame which it has throughout the United States."

A Strong Endorsement for Pe-ru-na from the Treasurer of the National Prohibition Voters' League.

Office National Independent Voters' League, St. Louis. The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio: Gentlemen-"I cannot think of words that will express my praise for your most wonderful remedy, Peruna. It is beyond a doubt the most wonderful cure that long sufferers from catarrh can find. "I have suffered from this dread disease more than twenty years, and was only induced to try your remedy against my will after having spent hundreds of dollars in every possible channel seeking relief, as some of my intimate friends had been cured by it. "I am pleased to tell you that I am to-day a perfectly well man, who cannot help but praise the manufacturers for the everlasting benefit I have received from your remedy.

"With hopes for your great success, I am,
"Sincerely, yours to command,
"C. L. B. POLSTON."

Rev. Dr. Josiah Getz, 47 Park Ave., Albany, N. Y., for years a Rabbi of the Hebrew Synngogue, but now retired, writes:

"I am fully convinced of the merits of Peruna in cases of colds and catarrh and as a general tonic. I have taken it off and on now for several years and always find that it is very effective in restoring lost strength and appetite, and very effective in ridding the system of cold. I gladly enforse it."-Rev. Josiah Getz.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejavenued by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Feruma assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cross of catarrh, that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh.

A Methodist Bishop Endorses Pe-ru-na.

James A. Handy, Eishop of the A. M. E. Church of Baltimore, Md., writes from 1341 North Carey street;

"I take pleasure in acknowledging the curative effects of Peruna. At the solicitation of a friend I used your remedy, and cheerfully recommend your Peruna to all who want a good tonic and a safe care for catarrh." JAMES A. HANDY.

Iowa, writes:
"I was troubled with sleeplessness and nervousness for a period of nearly one year; also with catarrhal trou-bles. A brother minister advised me to try Perana, and after taking two bottles my trouble entirely disappeared. "I am satisfied that Peruna has wrought a complete cure in my case and will advise others similarly afflicted to try this remedy. An earnest desire to help the sick and at licted prompts me to write this testimonial."

Catarrh is essentially the same wherever located. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

Every great success is sure to make enemies. Peruna is a great success, and through jealency and ency much has been said calculated to prejudice the public against it.

But those who have taken Peruna know better. The vast multitude of people who have been cured of entarth in some form by Peruna will never cease to praise Peruna for the benefits received.

Rev. J. N. Parker, Utica, N. Y., writes "In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hear-ing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much affected but that I could hold converse with my friends; but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that 1001, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with severe rheumatic pains in my limbs. I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1201. My rheumatic usins are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when 53 years old can say it has invigorated my whole system. I cannot but think, dear doctor, that you must feel very thankful to the all-loving Father that you have been permitted to live, and by your skill be such a blessing as you have been to suffering humanity."—Rev. J. N. Parker.

A Pastor's Endorsement.

Rev. H. W. Tate. 47 S. 11th street, Corabus, Ohio, writes:

"For several years I have been troubled with a peculiar spasmodic affection of the throat. It would seize me suddenly, and for a few minutes I would be unable to speak audibly, and my breath would be greatly interfered with. I would be obliged to gasp for breath.

to gasp for breath.

"I finally concluded that it was some catarrhal affection which probably excited the spasm. It interfered with my vocation as a preacher, attacking me occamionally in the pulpit. I had heard so much about Peruna as a catarrh remedy that I determined to try it. After taking two bottless my trouble has disappeared."—Rev. H. W. Tate.

Rev. H. Steubenvoll of Elkhorn, Wis., s paster of the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's Church of that place. Rev. Steubenvoll is the possessor of two Bibles presented to him by Emperor William of Germany. Upon the fly leaf of one of the Bibles the Emperor has written in his own handwriting a text.

Gentlemen: "I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of ne., I took Peruna and was cured. It save me strength and courage and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well, It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone keep Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year."—Rev. H. ## Reasons Why Pe-ru-na Has Become the Standard Catarrh Remedy of the World.

Because it is a regular doctor's prescription. Because it was used on over forty thousand patients in private practice before it was advertised by the inventor. Because it is absolutely efficient in all cases. Because it contains no injurious ir gredients of whatsoever character. Because it contains no whiskey, brandy narcolles of any character whatseever. Because it has stood the test of popular approval for twenty-five years. Because it has been endorsed by the most prominent people in the world. Because it is used in no less than two militon homes in the United States to-day. Because it is the invention of the greatest catarrhal specialist in the world. These are the reasons that will continue to make Peruna the world's catarrh remedy-without rival, without substitute.

It was to inspect the great muscle of the biggest city-combination of capital and New York that I came here, and to get its accurate dimensions called upon the Mayor in his office at the City Hall.

NEW YORK'S BOY MAYOR. General George B. McClellan was lovingly called "Little Mac."

Still he was big enough to be one of the great Generals of our Civil War and a candidate for President of the United States. The Mayor of New York is the son of that "Little Mac," and in many respects he resembles his father. He looks like a boy, and he is still in his thirties, although he has been an editor, a business man and a Representative in Con-enough to act as the ruler of the second city of the world, and there are those who say he yet may be the Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States.

About two years ago I met the Lord Mayor of London in his palace across the way from the Bank of England. It took letters of introduction, much preliminary correspondence and interviews with flunkies in livery before I came into his pres

"New York is having no struggles just now." replied Mayor McClellan. "We had some trouble with the building trades last year, but to-day our condition is thoroughly healthy, and, barring some temporary annoyances as to our theaters, we are at peace with ourselves and all the world. Our labor is in a good condition, and it promises to remain so."
"Is the city growing?"
"Tes," replied the Mayor. "It grows so fast that we must be always on the alert or it oversteps us. Our chief trouble now is as to the schools.
"We have not enough buildings to accommodate all the children, and at present there are $0,000 who can go to school ginning its youth. We are increasing faster now in proportion to our population than London, and London is gray-haired compared with New York. It was a city in the days of the Romans, although later on its population dropped. New York is only 280 years old. When New York is leisure to talk.

The conversation was rapid. The young Mayor knows his own mind and there is no one better posted upon the great city of which he is ruler.

"I have come from Washington," said I, "for a talk about New York. What is the condition of the town, and how is it getting along in its struggles with capital and labor?"

"New York is having no struggles just now," replied Mayor McClellan. "We had some trouble with the building trades last year, but to-day our condition is thorough; by healthy, and, barring some temporary annoyances as to our theaters, we are at peace with ourselves and all the world. Our labor is in a good condition, and it promises to remain so."

"Is the city growing?"

"Yes," replied the Mayor. "It grows so fast that we must be always on the glert.

The sold as London, what may it not be?"

"But has New York room for growth. Mr. Mayor?" I asked. "Have you avail asked. Have you avail asked. Have you avail asked. Have you avail asked. Have you avail asked the space here for many more people?"

"Yes, "replied the May suburbs whose capacity is enormous, is, we have room here for fifteen mil-ins, and when they come we will ac-mmodate them."

NOT WORRIED ABOUT CHICAGO. But, Mr. Mayor, I have recently been in Chicago. The people there think they are the real hub of the United States, and say their city will eventually surpass the natural increase the natural increase the something like 35,000, so you see we have to build far ahead."

"How many people has New York?"

"ust about 4,000,000," replied the Mayor.

"How does that compare with the other cities of the world?"

"It is exceeded only by London," was the reply. "New York is now more than a million in advance of Paris; it is twice as big as Chicago, Berlin or any city in Asia, and three times as big as S. Petersburg. "But, your Honor," said I. "suppose a shig as Chicago, Berlin or any city in Asia, and three times as big as S. Petersburg. "But, your Honor," said I. "suppose a shig can be built in connection with the Great Lakes, so that ocean steamers could go right into Chicago?"

"That possibility is far in the future," replied the Mayor of New York we propose to have a little canal ourselves from here to Buffalo, which will largely increase our business. At any rate, we are not afraid of Chicago at the present time. New York is Uncle Sam's chief gateway."

"We work is the natural gate think this is the natural gate withink this is the natural gate.

"In think this is the natural gate think this is the natural gate.

"In think this is the natural gate.

Think this is the natural gate.

"In think this is the natural gate.

"But, your Honor," said I. "suppose a shit of the world, and it is increasing its gateway."
"Where is New York growing just now, your Hondr?" I asked.
"For an answer to that question," replied the Mayor, "you have only to open your eyes. It is growing everywhere, both in the city and in the suburbs. The Borough of Manhattan is fast becoming one of steel skyscrapers. Bronx has been cut up into building blocks, and a vast number of dwellings and flats are going there. Brooklyn is growing faster an ever, and, in short, the whole of cater New York has on its seven-ague boots. Within the past two years more than

Within the past two years more than eighty large real estate companies have been incorporated, with a total capitalization of more than $5,00,000, and they are patting up belidings of all kinds, residences, business blocks, apartmenthouses and great hotels.

The increase in the apartment-houses is very great. In 1902 something like sixty-its were created representing a tetal investment, including the land, of about $5,000.00. It is the same as to department stores and office buildings. Indeed, it is hard to realize how fast New York is growing.

deed, it is hard to realize how hast New York is growing."
"How about public improvements?"
"The city is being bettered right along," replied the Mayor, "The Williamsburg bridge, which was formally opened in De-cember, is one of the wonders of Greater

New York.

"It is forty feet wider than the Brooklyn britize, and, with its approaches, is a mile and a half in length. It has cost about $36,020,00, and it will zoon be carrying a large part of the traffic between New York and Brooklyn.

"And, then, there is the new subway system which will soon be completed at a cost of $25,000,00, and there are also the Penasylvania improvements, which are to

"I believe the people here are as good "I believe the people here are as good as they are on the average, anywhere in the United States," replied Mayor McClellan. "We have more than a thousand churches, synagogues and cathedrais. Our people are churchgoers and we observe the Sabbath better, perhaps, than any other large city of the world. Yes, we are a Christian city in the broadest sense. We believe in things. We don't all believe the same way, but we do believe in something, and on the whole I think we are up to the average as regards personal and municipal morality."

"Speaking of municipal morality, your Honor, how about the grafters and boollers? Is not New York City overrun with them?"

"If it is," replied the Mayor, "I have not seen them. They have not shown their heads since I came into office."
"But, your Honor, you certainly have a large number of the criminal classes here. Are there not places in New York City where a man would risk his life by going about alone at hight."
"I don't him to be a seen to be a seen as a seen about alone at night."
"I don't think so," raid the Mayor. "I should not be afraid to go anywhere in New York alone any time of the day or night."

New York alone any time of the day or night."

"What is your ideal for New York, Mr. McClellan. What would you like to see the city become?"

"That is a big question," was the reply. "I do not deal in ideals. All I can do is to grapple with things as they come up and settle them as far as I can. I want to see the city improved, and I think we are steadily improving it. I want to see it made clean, healthy and sufe before trying to build up a plan by which it may be made beautiful. At present our chief business is with the utilities."

"What do you think of New Yorkers, Mr. McClellant" I asked. "Some people imagine that they are a little snarter than the average American in other parts imagine that they are a little smarter than the average American in other parts of the country."

"I don't think that," reviled the Mayor, "although there is one thing in favor of such a supposition, and that is that the best of everything comes to New York. This is the national center of wealth and business, and those magnets attract brains and skill from every part of the country. In that respect New York is milking the United States, and steady streams of the best ability produced by the country are always flowing here. We get not only much of the best milk, but the very cross of the country."

"What are the chances for young men in New York?" I asked.

"I think they are good," replied the Mayor. "The place to make money is when the money is The place to do business is where the most business is. This needs good young men and lots of them. It has never needed them more. han the average American in other parts

NINDTY-TWO MILLIONS A YEAR.

"It must cost something to run a city like this, Mr. McClellan," said I.

"It does," said the Mayor of New York.
"It costs just about $2.00,000 a year, or, if you take in certain county and State items, the amount is $198.00,000 a year, or, if "That is an enormous sum," said I.

"Does New York get the worth of its money?"

"I think so," replied the Mayor. "There is a vast deal of work and it takes a small army to do it."

"But where does all the money go?"
said I. "The salaries must be high. How about the Mayor? What does he get?"

"Pifteen thousand dollars," was the reply. There is no place were private interests reach out as far or where the desire for the country as any explicit in the country. There is no place where private interests reach out as far or where the desire for the common welfare of the country. There is no place where private interests reach out as far or where the desire for the common welfare of the welfare of the United States. We are an interest of the United States as a small army to do it."

"But where does all the money go?"
said I. "The salaries must be high. How about the Mayor? What does he get?"

"Think he does," replied Mayor McClellan, "He gets here at 9 o'clock in the morning and is kept here until 6 o'clock at night, and every hour of his day is a busy one. Yes, I think the Mayor earns his salary."

"If it were not a personal question, your Honor, I should like to know how the present Mayor likes his job?"

"He likes it well," replied the young Mayor of New York, with a smile. The position is a responsible one, and one that makes a man feel he is doing something and makes him hope to do it well."

"But, your Honor, can you really do things? Does not politics control? It is said that Tammany is the real head of New York."

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Washington, April 16.—Major George W. Evans, disbursing officer and Chief of the Division of Finance in the Interior Department, to-day reached the fortieth year of his service in the department. When but 16 years of age he was, at the instance of President Lincoln, appointed as assistant messenger on April 16, 1984, and assigned to duty at the door of the Secretary's office. He received a congratulatory letter from Secretary Hitchcock this morning.

Mr. Evans from 1861 to 1862 was a newsboy in the Army of the Potomac, and participated with that army in its many campaigns on the peninsula, and in the Valley of Virginia and Marviand.

When the capital city was threatened by the invasion of General Early in 1845 he promptly enlisted in the army in its defense, and was sent to Fort Stevens to assist in resisting the march of the Confederates on Washington.

Air. Evans has, in his service as disbursing officer of the department, disbursed over $200,000,000 without error or loss of a penny to the United States or himself. As Chief of the Financial Division, he has handled more than a billion of dollars with accuracy and fidelity to the Government.
